

Sunday
Oct 13, 2013, 5:00 pm
Hopkins Street
Concert No. 004

An evening of locally sourced, all organic, hand-crafted music

Dream

John Cage

Jonathan Simon, vibraphone

France - A Chloris

Reynaldo Hahn

Germany - Widmung

Robert Schumann

England - Now Sleeps the Crimson Petal

Roger Quilter

Lynne Teck-Liang Tan, lyric soprano

Skye Atman, piano

-Break-

Shepherds of Provence, Op. 43

Eugene Bozza

Pastrorale Provençale

Chant des Bergers Provencaux (Call at Dawn)

Sous les Etoiles (Beneath the Stars)

Shandra Stiemert, oboe Felisa Simon, English horn

La Isla Bulgara

Rima Ash/Yates Brown

Bandito 13

Doralice: Rima Ash, violin Yates Brown, guitar

-Break-

Klezmer Dances

Traditional

Russian Waltz

Hebrew Dance

Raphael Gold, viola Felisa Simon, oboe Carla Kaufman, cello

*Please silence all electronic devices. Please no recording of any sort.
This is a social media free zone; please don't post anything on the interwebs.
Peace.*

An incomplete list of today's performers:

I'm Carla Kaufman, aka Carla Kay. Playing bass and cello is how I spend much of my time. Show biz IS my life. Thanks, I'll be here all week.

Felisa Simon - I play the oboe, I'm learning bebop upright bass, went to Oberlin and like to think about the origins of life.

Jonathan Simon - I am a percussionist, love ragtime and klezmer xylophone, and have been kicked out of a band I played drum set in for being too funky. I also like figuring out how to use technology to make life better.

Shandra Stiemert - Graduated from the Boston Conservatory with a degree in oboe performance, recently moved to California and is living the dream.